SHOWERS CHECK DROUGHT DAMAGE IN MIDDLE WEST

Report Calls Drought Worst In Bureau Records

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Rains pelting away at the farm belt's long borne drought — officially termed "worst in the climatological history" of the nation—checked crop deterioration over wide areas today and revived hopes for forage supplies.

Showers continued in Iowa after the southern portion of the state last night was cheered by a fall of more than an inch.

The moisture came, however, said meteorologist C. D. Reed, in portions of the state where most of the corn was already "damaged beyond recovery."

His official report, issued during the day, said Iowa, the premier producing state, "faces a corn disaster far surpassing that of 1934 and about equalling 1894, the year of the shortest crop on record."

In 1894 the yield for the state averaged 12 bushels to the acre. The current acreage is about 26 per cent greater than that year's total.

Rain fell also in sections of Illinois and Nebraska and more showers "substantial in most areas," were forecast for eastern Iowa, northern and central Illinois and Indiana, northeastern Missouri, southern Michigan and Wisconsin and possibly southeastern Minnesota.

A weather bureau summary in Washington, which described the current drought as "the worst" in its records said that the four dry months from April through July had "left a large part of agricultural United States with a handicap the two remaining months (of the growing season) can not possibly overcome."

Despite this analysis and pessimistic crop reports which set the damage to Illinois corn prospects at "fully half" and noted that Nebraska might have to depend on irrigated sections for seed corn, corn quotations closed irregular, after heavy early losses, on the Chicago board of trade. Wheat advanced 1¼-3¼ cents on reports of adverse harvest conditions in Europe and because of the international political situation there.

At Minneapolis, wheat futures soared to the highest mark since 1928, $1.33 a bushel for September delivery. Barrel flour prices advanced 15 cents, family patent being quoted at $6.05.

Illinois WPA officials prepared a report for Washington looking toward the addition of that state to the "emergency drought" list after a survey showing, they said, that 3,500 farmers in 22 counties of the southern tip of the state would be "destitute in the near future."

Williamson County Redeems Warrants

Pays Debts At Rate of 50 Cents on Dollar

Marion, Ill., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Headed by elderly James Ward, Williamson county creditors swarmed the courthouse today when A. O. Ledbetter, county treasurer, began the redemption of warrants with funds obtained from the recent sale of county bonds.

Ward, to whom the county owed nearly two years' pay when he was replaced as courthouse janitor in December, 1934, was first at the window when payment started. He received half the money due him, waiving the remaining half in accordance with an agreement between the county board of supervisors and creditors to fund the county's debt at 50 cents on the dollar.

The county owed $340,000 on July 1, 1935, when a move to fund the debt was begun. Bonds for the full amount exceeded the county's constitutional limit, but the board agreed on an issue of $175,000 in 20-year bonds to be retired by special taxation and asked creditors to waive the remainder.

Brooks Is Speaker At Mt. Sterling

Deals With State Issues in Address Before 5,000

Mt. Sterling, Ill., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Undaunted by a drizzling rain, C. Wayland Brooks took command of Republican day activities at the Brown county fair here this afternoon.

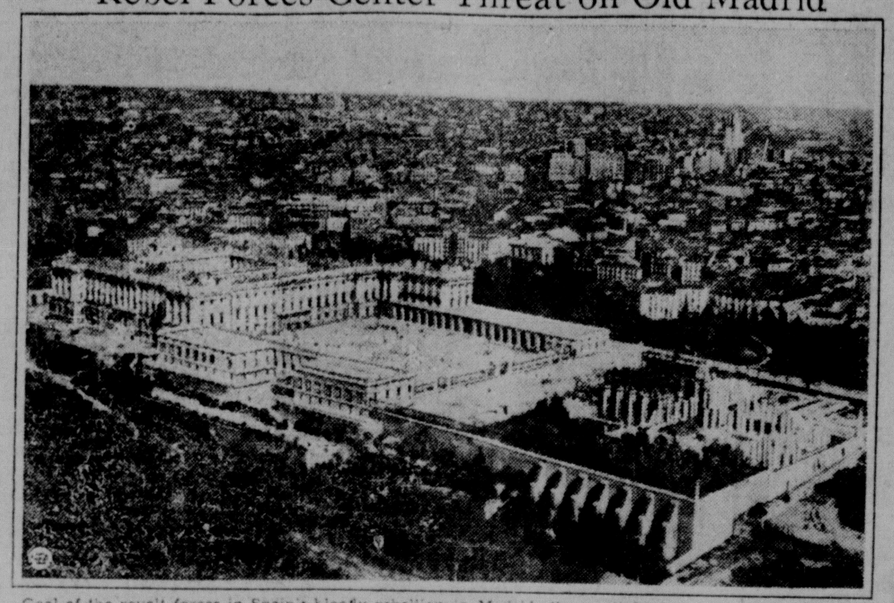

The fairgrounds grandstand which seats 10,000 was half-filled to hear the Republican candidate for governor in a speech which dealt principally with state issues.

The national administration was not spared, however, as Brooks charged it had "forced the American farmer out of the American market" through lowered tariffs and reciprocal trade treaties.

Rebel Forces Center Threat on Old Madrid

Goal of the revolt forces in Spain's bloody rebellion is Madrid, the capital, shown here in a general view, with the old royal palace in the foreground. Marching over mountain ranges, traversing roads resembling quagmires, the northern rebel army, headed by Gen. Francisco Mola, was slowly advancing on the city, without waiting for assistance from the south.

Hunger Marchers Are Driven from Capital By Rain

Approve State Plans for Relief but Threaten To Return

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—(AP)—More than 100 state policemen left for their regular posts of duty tonight as threats of relief rioting faded with the departure at noon of 300 members of the Illinois Workers Alliance in the trucks which brought them here for a demonstration which never took place.

Their clothes soggy from 12 hours of cold, drizzling rain, the unemployed group made their only overture toward a demonstration as they left, singing loudly and waving placards as they rode past the capitol and through the business district on the way out of the city. Their leaders, however, said that although they were satisfied with the state's tentative plans for relief, they would be back in greater numbers if the program was not adopted.

Meanwhile, the administration started the wheels rolling for adoption of the plan whereby the state will appropriate $3,000,000 a month for aid and the local governments raise another $2,100,000 monthly.

De Witt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau, began drafting amendments to the present laws and bills now pending before the House. The bills were advanced to second reading this morning in a perfunctory session and unless an unforeseen barrier is encountered may be passed next week.

Billman also planned to leave tonight for Chicago to confer with Chapman & Cutler, the law firm which yesterday declared it believed the Hickman-Lantz-Finn relief laws unconstitutional and anticipation warrants issued under the laws' tax levies unsalable.

He said the only difficulty he could see ahead for the legislature in the new relief plan was in approval of the amendment repealing the mandatory provision of the local levy program. The trouble, Billman said, was in finding some one willing to sponsor the bill.

Father Coughlin Makes $25,000 Bet

Backs Lemke Against Landon in Rhode Island

Detroit, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin said today he had not communicated with Bishop Michael J. Gallagher, his church superior now in Vatican City, but anticipated no changes in his plans for the national political campaign.

Father Coughlin said he would address two eastern meetings of his National Union for Social Justice Sunday, one at Syracuse, N. Y., and the other at Scranton, Pa.

In a letter to Frederick L. Jenckes of Providence, R. I., today, the priest confirmed a bet that Rep. William Lemke, Union party presidential candidate, would poll more Rhode Island votes than would Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate.

Father Coughlin pointed out that his original proposition was to bet $25,000 at odds of 3 to 2 on the result of the Rhode Island vote, and not on the national outcome. He said attendants at a mass meeting last Sunday agreed to subscribe the $25,000, and added that he accepted the wager with the understanding the sum would go to orphans of the state if he won.

CHICAGO VOTERS REGISTER

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—More than 2,000 Chicago voters signed their names today to the new permanent registration rolls in the office of the board of election commissioners. Yesterday—the opening day of registration—2,352 persons, including Governor Henry Horner, were registered by election board clerks.

Spanish Rebels Gain Ground At Tremendous Cost; Armies Still 36 Miles From Madrid

DICTATOR PUTS GREECE UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Issues Decrees Aimed To Crush Revolt By Communists

Athens, Greece, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Iron-willed John Metaxas, Europe's newest dictator, tonight set about to crush with a series of martial decrees what he called an attempted Communist revolt.

The Chamber of Deputies was dissolved, martial law decreed and rigid censorship imposed after alleged Communists supported the calling of a 24-hour general strike.

Metaxas in a cabinet shake-up took for himself the portfolios of the army, navy, air and foreign affairs and retained his friend George Skylankakis as minister of the interior.

He named Constantine Zavitziana, veteran politician, the vice-president of the council, and changed the under-secretaries of the ministries of finance, labor, public assistance, hygiene and air.

Metaxas in a proclamation tonight promised enforcement of an eight hour day, a minimum wage, and institution of a social insurance system.

Found Stabbed and Stuffed in Trunk

Body of 31 Year Old Man Has 40 Ice Pick Wounds

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 5.—(AP)—William Hessler, 31, known to the police through arrests for attempted extortion and kidnaping, was found today, stabbed with an ice pick and stuffed into a trunk which had been left on a Brooklyn lot.

Hessler's arms and legs had been tightly bound with rope that had been looped around his neck. Assistant Medical Examiner George W. Ruger said a preliminary examination showed about 40 stab wounds in the chest.

CAR IS DAMAGED IN S. MAIN ACCIDENT

When Mrs. F. J. Raphier of St. Louis tried to bring her car to a stop at the corner of South Main street and Morton, the wet pavement caused her to lose control of the car and she crashed into a light pole in front of the Phillips gasoline station, breaking the pole off at the bottom. Mrs. Raphier's car then hit another car which was parked near the oil draining pit of the gas station, and finally came to a stop. No one was injured, but the Raphier car was badly damaged.

The accident occurred at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Madrid, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Spanish rebels tonight pushed the Civil War front close to France's border in bloody battle for possession of San Sebastian and advanced a step nearer Madrid at tremendous cost in dead and wounded.

Desperately the fascist troops hurled heavy artillery fire along the road into Tolosa and nearby San Sebastian. A coordinating column moved toward Gijon, farther to the west.

As night fell, the rebels appeared to have made little progress and new fighting broke out near the French border in the province of Navarre.

The offensive marked an apparently unsuccessful attempt by fascists to dislodge the strongly intrenched loyalists along the seacoast, and provide a northern port through which the rebels could receive supplies.

Throughout the day the deadly whine of artillery shells betokened progress of the attack,—another battle of destruction in the Civil War which already has cost 35,000 lives and 100,000 wounded according to the Red Cross estimate.

High in the mountains outside Madrid, where yesterday 400 were killed in vicious fighting, rebels paid for a two-mile advance with 300 dead and a thousand wounded.

For 48 hours the fighting raged. At the end, the fascist forces still were 36 miles from the capital. They faced tremendous new hazards when they turned toward loyalists barricaded in protected peaks of the guadarrama passes guarding the plateau city.

Unable to bury their dead, the troops poured oil on the bodies and turned the battlefield into a funeral pyre.

The loyalist government, claiming new victories in the Guadarramas, quoted a purported rebel radio broadcast to indicate weakening of the revoltists.

The Madrid government arrested more than 600 fascists and monarchists in a citywide police roundup and continued the purge of fascist sympathisers within the government.

Only desire to avoid further bloodshed, the loyalist regime asserted, stayed their hands in attack against Granada, Zaragoza, Cordoba and Seville. They "could be captured any day," a government statement contended.

(Gibraltar dispatches said two British seaplanes flying from Algiers were fired on by Spanish loyalist warships. Apparently they were mistaken for rebel craft.

(Gen. Emilio Mola, northern commander for the fascist revolution ordered the arrest of any member of Spain's former royal family who sets foot in rebel territory.

(Prince Juan of the Asturias, heir presumptive to the non-existent Spanish throne, yesterday was said to have returned from a call to rebel forces, who warned him there was no place for restoration of the monarchy in the fascist program.

(American Ambassador Claude G. Bowers docked his "floating embassy," the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Cayuga, at St. Jean De Luz, France, today, with four American refugees. He said all American citizens desiring to leave the north coastal cities had now been evacuated.)

FRANCE URGES ARMS EMBARGO TO AVOID WAR

French Volunteers To Aid Spanish Leftists

Paris, Aug. 5.—(AP)—France sought tonight to clamp an arms embargo on Spain as the first step toward preventing the civil war from becoming an international conflict.

Frenchmen meantime streamed across the border at Perpignan to volunteer in the fight on the side of the Spanish Radical government.

That was regarded as within the meaning of neutrality as long as the men had their passports in order.

At Toulouse airport were 14 pursuit planes reported lined up and ready to take off for Spain for delivery to a Spanish buyer. They were held motionless while France pressed the non-aggression agreement.

French newspapers hostile to the Madrid government said the planes were sold the Spanish when the Lithuanian government cancelled its order for them.

Particular emphasis, officials said, was placed upon success of the arms embargo in negotiations at Rome for a proposed seven-power agreement on neutrality because Italian planes already have been flown to Spanish Morocco where the rebels hold sway.

England, France and Belgium already were in accord, and Russia expressed willingness tonight to join. Germany was said to be hinging a reply on what others will do.

Portugal, the seventh power, was expected to agree readily.

Il Duce's reply, which was likely to accept the principle of non-intervention, French sources said, might declare airplane and arms traffic difficult to control.

It also was expected to raise the question of Soviet propaganda and Communist contributions of money to anti-Fascist forces in Spain.

Johnston City Definitely Loses Sole Industry

Appeal to Be Made Here for Family of Unemployed from "Egypt"

Johnston City, "Deserted Village" of southern Illinois, has definitely lost its one industry,—the $3,000,000 Old Ben coal mine which was recently flooded with water. Today an appeal will be made in Jacksonville to receive one family of that city's small army of unemployed.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bryan and son, James Jr., are sitting on their front porch in Johnston City watching families leave for other locations and prospects of employment.

The trek began in 1922 when the mine was electrified throughout, reducing the number of employed from 800 to 300 men. This change was a temporary blow, but higher prices and the prosperity of the mine added to the prosperity of the community. A new high school was built with a large gymnasium for the state basketball champs of 1929 coached by La Rue VanMeter, now athletic director at Illinois College.

Then the fatal seep from an adjoining mine began this spring, with nation-wide publicity given to the peace-time soldiers of Johnston City who fought desperately for their jobs and their living. Every scheme, every scientific aid, all mechanical equipment available was utilized with no success.

Scores of the miners have been forced to the relief rolls. Some have moved away. Many are still there, waiting for almost impossible salvaging operations, others,—only waiting.

Bryan was a boss of a twenty-five man crew in the modern mine. He is a hard worker, sober, strong and able to do any labor at middle age. As foreman he had to have a knowledge of carpentering, concrete, laying grades and handling men.

His son is ready to enter college. He was a good student and star member of the Johnston City basketball team playing in the state finals in Champaign last winter. Illinois College officials have practically made it possible for him to enroll here this fall.

The Bryans want to come to Jacksonville. There are unemployed here, but in Johnston City the entire population is faced with an almost final "work-less" future.

Coach VanMeter said last night that some formal appeal would probably be made to the local union trade assembly, at least for an opinion on the situation.

Federation Council Votes To Suspend Lewis Group; Ten Unions Are Affected

Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council today voted to suspend ten unions now in the committee for industrial organization unless they withdraw from that group within 30 days.

Otherwise, the council decided, the unions representing more than 1,000,000 workers will be suspended indefinitely.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and leader of the industrial organization committee immediately retorted:

"We will not disband the committee for industrial organization. The decision of the executive council will not change the policy of the C. I. O., nor will it have any effect upon the organizing activities of the committee."

In view of the council's action and the Lewis answer, many observers felt that the American labor movement would be split into two warring groups before Labor Day, with the industrial group, perhaps competing against the AFOL in some fields.

The council handed down its decision after a three day "trial" of the unions on charges by John P. Frey, president of the A. F. of L. Metal Trades department, they were guilty of "insurrection" and "rebellion," in their organizing activities.

The Lewis group was composed of the AFOL faction believing all workers in each big industry should be organized into one union.

"When ambitious men from a dual, rival organization for the purpose of enforcing the acceptance of minority rule within the American Federation of Labor, the executive council decides they cannot do so within and as a part of the American Federation of Labor," the council said in a statement announcing its decision.

Lewis, in a statement ready when the council acted, called the council's action an act of "incredible and crass stupidity" and "an act dictated by personal selfishness and frantic fear."

He added:

"It indicates a total absence of consideration for the well-being of the nation's workers and requirements of an effective movement of labor."

David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers and the only Lewis committee member on the A. F. of L. council, cast the lone vote against suspension.

Whether the A. F. of L. would set up unions rival to those allied with Lewis in even the Lewis faction, charters are revoked was a subject of considerable speculation.

Open labor war would result if such competition were started by either side, labor observers agreed.

Regarding the suggestion that one or more of the unions in his faction might ask the courts to enjoin the council from making effective the suspension order, Lewis said he did not think any would go to court.

"We might win," he added, "and it would be rather a paradox to have the courts order us back into an organization where we are not welcome."

The suspended unions:

United Mine Workers of America, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of America, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, International Ladies' Garment Workers, United Textile Workers of America, Federation of Flat Glass Workers, United Automobile Workers, Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and the United Rubber Workers.

Rain Interferes With Church Picnic

Event At Glasgow Is Staged Under Handicap; Other News Notes

Glasgow, Aug. 5.—Rain, which was welcomed by everyone in this and all other communities, nearly washed out the annual Baptist Picnic here Wednesday. Work was carried on during the early morning hours, in preparing for the day's event, during intermittent showers, and the serving of the noon meal was carried out under a great handicap.

In spite of the showers, quite a few were served soup and general dinners during the noon hour, eating in the school building, automobiles and other nearby buildings.

As the afternoon progressed, a fair sized crowd gathered, remaining through the afternoon and evening programs.

The contesting events of the afternoon were omitted, due to the inclement weather, but music was furnished by the Pittsfield Band of about 25 pieces. Some of the contests scheduled for the evening's program was carried out, and another concert by the band was enjoyed by the crowd present.

The services of Chas. Chance's loud speaking system of Winchester were donated during the day's program.

Prize cakes were judged at noon, with the following listed as prize winners: Angel food, Mrs. Orvel Hoots, Alsey; Devil's food, Miss Janice Stice, Glasgow; burn sugar, Miss Ruby McEvers, Glasgow; Caramel, Mrs. Roy McEvers, Glasgow, Cocoanut, Miss Dell Crum, Glasgow; Chocolate, Miss Beulah Walk, Alsey; Best cake by girl under 16 yrs., Miss Lucy McEvers, Glasgow; Best loaf of bread, Mrs. McGuire, Alsey.

The evening's contests were as follows: Balloon blowing, Miss Jean Moore, Pittsfield; Ladies Whistling, Mrs. Millard McGlasson, Glasgow; Comical reading, Robt. M. Milstead, Pittsfield; wife calling, Rev. Garfield Rodgers, Pisgah; Ugly face making, Junior Tipsword, Glasgow; Largest family on grounds, Mrs. Joseph Northrop, Glasgow; Piano duet, Mrs. Conrad Fundel and Miss Dorothy Killebrew.

He was arrested Saturday by Campbell on a statutory charge, in connection with the death of 15-year-old Zella Wagner who died Thursday at Schmitt Memorial Hospital in Beardstown, and because of the attitude of people here against him he was removed today.

The sheriff has allegedly stated that charges against Roberts will be changed to murder. A hearing on the charge will be held August 12 in Beardstown before Police Magistrate R. B. Rohrer.

The alleged crime is said to have taken place in Beardstown June 6, and the girl committed to the hospital July 25.

Introduce Blood Stained Garments In Newberry Case

Selections of Jurors Completed Wednesday Afternoon

Virginia, Aug. 5.—The blood-stained garments of Ethel Elmore were successfully introduced by the state as evidence in the prosecution of Charles Newberry for murder before Judge A. Clay Williams of Pittsfield in the Virginia court room today.

Selection of jurors was completed at 2 p. m. with the addition of M. O. McMullen, coach at Chandlerville High school, and William Charlesworth, Arenzville farmer.

State's Attorney Glenn Colburn, asking for the death sentence in the Ashland killing, opened his arguments with the testimony of two alleged eye witnesses, Charles Foreman and Harry Clowers of Ashland; Dr. C. E. Rasmussen, Ashland physician, called in after the shooting; and Stuart Brownback, Ashland undertaker.

The garments allegedly worn by Ethel Elmore were also introduced. Defense counsel, Epler Mills of Virginia and Myron Mills of Jacksonville, were successful in having one of the articles of apparel rejected as evidence.

HORNER WANTS SPEED ON OLD AGE PENSIONS

County Investigations Proceeding At "Snail Pace"

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 5.—(AP)—Charging many counties with unfair administration of old age assistance, Governor Horner today instructed state investigators to examine applications on file in the various county welfare offices.

He issued the order before boarding a train for the Texas Centennial Exposition, and explained the action followed receipt of a report showing wide variations in the counties in the number of case investigations by each county employe.

"It is apparent," he said, "from these facts that the present administration of old age assistance in many counties is unfair to our needy aged citizens and to the taxpayers."

He said his action was provided for in the old age assistance act under a clause authorizing the state to "consider any application upon which a decision has not been made by the county department within thirty days," Mr. Horner added:

"I am determined that the administration of assistance must be speeded up, and I have directed that the state investigators be placed in every county to rush this work so that our aged citizens will receive assistance at the earliest possible date.

"It is my desire to decrease the cost of administration. The snail pace set by some of the counties is costing entirely too much and eventually would deprive the aged of many thousands of dollars to which they are entitled under the law."

The governor said to increase the county staffs would be "extravagance" and pointed out the salaries are taken out of old age appropriation.

He said the survey of the first six months activity of the county commissions showed their work to be "unsatisfactory," with the number of applications investigated by each employe ranging from 18 in one downstate county to 216 in another.

In 27 counties it was reported the investigators averaged more than 100 applications per employe, in 4 counties they exceeded 200 per worker and in 5 counties the average was 25 or less.

He said that of the 153,797 applications on file in the county offices throughout the state "only 32,082 had been approved and sent to the state office on Aug. 1." He said the average for the downstate counties was 78 cases per investigator, and 22 approved cases per employe in Cook county.

"I consider this too low," Mr. Horner asserted.

Six Surrender in Connection With Trust Violations

Charged With Oil Operations in Violation of Anti-Trust Laws

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The surrender of Keith Fanshier at the U. S. marshal's office today brought to six the number of Chicagoans who have voluntarily appeared to post removal bonds in connection with warrants charging them with violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws in oil operations.

Fanshier, petroleum editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, posted a $5,000 bond to insure his appearance before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker Aug. 14, when a joint hearing will be held.

Edward G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, surrendered today with two of his vice presidents, Allan Jackson and Edward J. Bullock.

They were among the nine Chicagoans named in a mass indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Madison, Wis., Monday.

R. H. McElroy, Jr., tank sales manager of the Pure Oil Company, and Bernard L. Majewski, vice president in charge of sales of the Deep Rock Oil Corporation, surrendered yesterday.

On advice of counsel, none of the defendants entered pleas, simply posting bond. Attorneys indicated motions may be filed later challenging the jurisdiction of the Wisconsin federal court to hear the cases.

Crime Doesn't Pay

Because of a series of six robberies in which the total loot was estimated to be $56.70, six men must spend from one to 20 years in the state penitentiary. A little figuring shows that each of these men received sentences of at least one year, for crimes which netted them an average of $9.45.

That sum of $9.45 for a year's labor is extremely low; yet the men, a few of whom have been before the bar of justice before, elected to commit the deeds. They took their fate in their own hands, and now they have to work a year in a penitentiary for $9.45.

Records of the case show that one month elapsed between the time of their first theft and their last one. Relief agencies allow more than $9.45 for a month to persons unemployed and in need of assistance.

The urge to beat the law rules strong in some people. They learn, too late, that the penalties for infractions of the social code are stiff.

A Long Walk

Years ago grandfather tousled the head of a third generation as he entertained with tales of Washington and the cherry tree, Lincoln who walked six miles to return three cents, and Barbara Fritchie who offered her head and its gray hairs from a second story window to protect her country's emblem.

The grandson has long since descended from his grandfather's knee, may be breaking in his own for similar service. But this week he added another hero tale to the age-old collection.

A WPA boss vouches for the story that a 65-year-old Morgan county man this week walked twelve miles to work when his usual transportation failed. He is employed on a Nichols Park project and trudged the distance in from Sulphur Springs in time for a seven hour laboring day.

To the man himself the incident is probably of small consequence. It was second nature for him not to lay off a day with an excuse that would have been valid to any of a hundred other men.

In a far-away age, when man gets his physical energy from an electric wire, when his every need and desire is supplied by slight pressure on an appropriate button, a grandfather may tell this fantastic story:

"Yes, it was way back in 1936 when this fellow, 65 years old, walked twelve miles to work."

Last Half-Mast

The Waverly G. A. R. flag will remain forever at half-mast, with the death of John Criswell, last Civil War veteran of that community.

There are many attributes worthy of note in the life of a man who has served his country in a military campaign and survived to an old age.

Those who saw battle had to be alert and courageous. They came home bearing the colors to keep alive the memory of their comrades who died.

Recently an account was published of all the veterans of Morgan county. Most of them boasted of a firm step and eyes that could still read, some without the aid of glasses. Mr. Criswell was one of these.

It is not alone, then, a heritage of military glory that he leaves behind, but the record of a clean life, a sound mind in a sound body.

Police In Collusion

Criminal collusion of police with mugs of the underworld is getting altogether too frequent these days. Racketeers, professional gamblers, and gangsters generally, it appears, enjoy not only the protection of certain trusted officers, but have actually been tipped off by them to the movements of police departments.

All of which explains the successful domination in some cities of crookdom over the ordinary forces of law and order. The public in these cases is cheated of enforcement at the start—cheated by corruption parading in uniform!

Existing laws provide plenty of machinery by which corruption in a police department may be exposed, punished, and obliterated. Grand juries, prosecutors, and mayors have all the powers they need.

Wherever there is the least hint that police officials are too friendly with the underworld, these powers should be used to the limit.

How To Get Out of the Red

In these days of mounting civic debts and deficits, the case of Wheeling, W. Va., out of the red for the first time in 3 years, commands attention.

Wheeling, like the great majority of municipalities, staggered along for years with its expenses exceeding its income. Then in 1935 its voters decided to do something about the situation.

Under a city manager plan, they proceeded: first, to chop all "dead wood" (politicians holding unnecessary jobs) from the payroll; second, to set up a better system of tax collection, devoid of political interference and favor; and, third, to establish a central purchasing agency for all city supplies.

At the end of the first year of reform, Wheeling claims a surplus of $72,000, compared with a deficit of $106,000 the previous year. And it all goes to show how simple it is for a community to stand on its own legs, free of all financial worries, once it definitely sets its mind to it.

Low Fares Stand The Test

Protests of eastern railroads against the new 2-cents-a-mile passenger rate inaugurated June 1 are beginning to grow a bit scarcer in the face of substantially increased revenues.

Incomes of 27 eastern roads in June, under the 2-cent rate, advanced 6 per cent over those of a year ago. Individually, some roads did even better: the New York Central showed an 11.2 per cent gain, and the Baltimore & Ohio a 16.7 per cent rise over June, 1935.

It's not logical, of course, to attribute these increases entirely to lower rates. Business generally is improving. By the same token, it's fair to credit the new fares with much of this business.

The figures prove that rail service can be popular and profitable if the rates are right.

What Will The Harvest be—Grain or Men?

The moon gets big and yellow, these August nights, and as it drifts above the silent fields it shines down as a token of a new harvest—a sign that once again man has pitted his strength against the stubborn earth and forced it to give him of its plenty.

But the harvest moon has looked down on other things than ripening grain and burdened fruit trees. The human race reaped another kind of harvest, some 22 years ago, and almost died of it; and we never again can come to this month of August without remembering it as the most fateful of anniversaries.

The World War began 22 years ago this month. It was a war to enthrone democracy, and it left us a new kind of autocracy; it was a war to end war, and it left us wondering just how and where the next war will begin.

We cannot let the anniversary pass without considering anew this greatest of all the race's curses.

* * *

It was proper that the World War should begin in August. That is the month when men reap what they have sown; and if ever there was a harvest that came directly and logically from what had been planted, it was the harvest of August, 1914.

For the world before 1914 was the kind of world which, in the last analysis, always puts its trust in force. Beneath its fine phrases about civilization, friendship, and harmony, there was always the assumption that in the end the man, the group, or the nation with the most muscle would come out on top.

The plain lesson of modern science, triumphant over distance—that the human race is a unit which must act as a unit to survive—was blandly ignored.

And so the harvest moon of 1914 looked down upon an earth which shook with the thud of guns and the rolling tramp of moving armies. The blind savagery of the dark ages returned to warfare. What we know as civilization, built from the blood and toil and dreams of endless centuries, came close to utter collapse.

* * *

Now we are in a new August, and what is our prospect? We are sowing the same seed that was sown before 1914. Unless we immediately find a new kind, can we possibly hope for a different sort of harvest? Unless we take the pains to build the kind of society in which war is unlikely, can we be surprised if war comes?

We have not long to decide. It may be too late even now—for the fires in Spain may at any moment light a torch that will not be put out. But can any thinking man fail to demand, with all the strength that is in him, that the civilized world make one final, desperate effort to find the way to peace and harmony, regardless of the cost?

There will be a harvest moon next year, and the next, and the next; and what will they look down upon? A quiet and drowsy earth with swelling fields lying silent, waiting for the sickle—or an earth made hideous with the sight and sound of brothers at one another's throats?

THE VANISHING AMERICAN

Behind The Scenes In Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—It isn't exactly a scoop to report that Republicans have taken over the old Democratic shibboleth of state's rights and that the Democratic party is now carrying the hod for the advocates of concentrated federal power. There have been laughs long before this over that reversal of position.

It is more important to raise the question as to how it will all turn out, to guess which side is riding the winning horse, and to speculate as to the effects of the result.

The tendency to national consolidation has been sweeping along for 150 years and in the last 100 years, much of which has been spent under Republican presidents, there has been no important step away from this federalist trend.

One is reminded of this fact by Irving Brant in his book, "Storm Over the Constitution," subtitled "Democracy Turns to Federalism." Mr. Brant is chief editorialist for the St. Louis Star-Times and an outstanding authority on the writings of the Founding Fathers.

The question whether the tendency is good or bad may be one for argument. The question whether it will continue, now that the Republicans are more or less sworn to stop it, is something else again.

To date, Brant makes clear, the flow has all been in one direction, with occasional periods of great acceleration, such as that of the New Deal.

Property Rights to Fore

In this campaign are involved the rights of property and the Republican party is the party of property. In early days men of property took charge of the government and rapidly expanded the federal power. Now the men with the most property look upon such expansion with loathing and shout for the sanctity of state sovereignty.

"Jefferson himself was the first Democrat to abandon Jeffersonian democracy in favor of a Hamiltonian conception of national power," says Brant, and proceeds to prove it up to the hilt, showing that Jefferson was an anti-Federalist before he became president, a Federalist while president, and an anti-Federalist thereafter.

Sought Strong Government

The Fathers wrote a Constitution for a strong federal government in reply to agrarian rebellions and state legislative threats of paper money and debt cancellations, says Brant.

Both the small-state group and the large-state group at the constitutional convention, he makes clear after painstaking research, wanted a strong federal government. But each group wanted to control it. That fact, rather than any fanatical devotion to "states' rights," was what most of the shooting was about.

The Fathers soft-pedaled federal powers in discussing them for public consumption, but privately admitted those powers were sweeping.

The state's rights slogan served the slave owners until the Civil War—they "tried to build a state bulwark around slavery by warning that breakdown of state control meant monarchy and despotism."

Great Corporations Rise

Then began the rise of the corporate structure—until today one corporation controls more wealth than is contained within the borders of twenty-one states. The corporations gained control of state legislatures, took possession of state governments.

"Commercial feudalism has challenged and defeated American political democracy in the realm of the states," Brant says, "but is itself challenged in the realm of national government, where it has been predominant, but not wholly triumphant, in a half century of ever-heightening strife. Today the control of corporate wealth for political control is at the heart of the conflict over federal and state authority."

Wage earners, small investors, farmers, and the aged and infirm, the author says, are among groups looking toward the president and Congress for protection against "subjugation by" 200 corporations which own half the national wealth and exercise control through interlocking activities of a hundred men.

Court Creates "Vacuum"

The supreme court has driven a wedge between federal and state power, creating "a vacuum into which moved the super-government of finance and industry."

Others argue that this is all to the good, that the "industrial oligarchy" has brought prosperity and higher living standards, that extension of democracy means Socialism, then Communism.

But Brant disapproves. He urges, not a constitutional amendment or a curb on supreme court powers, but election of presidents who will appoint liberal justices who will concede to Congress the extensive powers he insists are in the Constitution.

This is not a conservative viewpoint, "but "Storm Over the Constitution" is being widely read as a contribution to constitutional history.

Byron McCarty and Kenosha Girl Wed

Ceremony Performed in Church Before Immediate Relatives

Miss Marjorie Kathryn Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Larson of Kenosha, Wis., and Byron M. McCarty of Evansville, Ind., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McCarty of Jacksonville, were united in marriage Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Congregational church of Kenosha.

The Rev. George R. Cady, D.D., officiated at the service, at which only immediate relatives were in attendance. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Larson Graham, as matron of honor. William M. McCarty, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The bride was attired in a rose beige jacket suit, with navy blue accessories, and wore a shoulder corsage. Mrs. Graham's suit was of gray silk, with oxblood accessories and a corsage to harmonize.

A reception for fifty guests was held at the Larson home after the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. McCarty left yesterday morning for a ten days' stay at Tomahawk, Wis. En route on their return journey to Evansville, where Mr. McCarty is in the employ of Montgomery Ward & Company, they will spend a three days' visit in Jacksonville with the McCarty, Srs.

The bride is a graduate of Kenosha High school. The bridegroom was formerly associated with Montgomery Ward & Company here.

Among those attending the wedding from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. William M. McCarty, Chicago, and Mrs. P. Smyth, Evanston, Ill.

A. J. Megginson was in the city yesterday from Woodson.

Judge Grants Three Divorces and Makes Orders Yesterday

Issues Order in Another Divorce Case; Two Judgments

Three divorces were granted and an order was issued in a fifth yesterday morning in Circuit Court by Judge Walter W. Wright as he presided over the regular Wednesday session of the court. Numerous orders were entered in other cases, including one in which the court continued a hearing into the method of selling real estate now held by the receivership of the Ayers National Bank.

Porter A. Armstrong was awarded a divorce from Ruth Armstrong on the grounds of desertion, and Cornelius C. Beemer obtained a divorce from Lillie Beemer on the same grounds. Ada Miller obtained a divorce from Wesley Miller on the grounds that the defendant had been convicted of a felony. The court awarded custody of the children to Mrs. Miller and reserved the right to rule on their support at a later date.

The court ordered Herman Booi to file an answer to a divorce suit, instituted by his wife, Irene Booi, by August 10.

Cree Smith, his attorney Leavitt Arnold, Nelson H. Greene, receiver for the Ayers National Bank, Carl E. Robinson, attorney for the receivership, and Dave Shadid told the court of the method of selling property now held by the receivership, and Judge Wright continued an inquiry into this phase of liquidating the bank's affairs until next week with the suggestion that the receiver and attorney work out some method by which all pieces of property will be advertised for sale.

Mr. Greene explained that in the past it has been the policy of his office to accept bids for pieces of property and submit them to the comptroller general's office for approval. Action of the comptroller general's office in the past has determined whether the property should be sold for the price offered.

The investigation arose over the sale of 160 acres of farm land near the Cree Smith farm, which the bank has been authorized to sell to Mr. Shadid by the comptroller general's office. Mr. Smith protested that he had not had an opportunity to buy the land. The court did not make any recommendation.

In the case of Harry Strang vs. Harry Cade and L. C. Collins, the court entered a judgment against Harry Cade for the sum of $2,829.68, plus costs, and against L. C. Collins for the sum of $1,789.36 plus costs. The action was brought under the title of a complaint for contribution.

The court also approved a petition for the appointment of a commission to aid in the partition suit brought by Frank W. Crow against Ida C. Crowley. The master-in-chancery's report of evidence in the case also was approved.

Sadie Day was ordered by the court to account for rents involved in the partition suit brought by Joel Fernandes against Sarah Miller et al, by the 12th of this month.

The First Joint Stock Land bank of Chicago advanced two cases, to the point where persons objecting to the settlement of cases against Robert D. and Minnie Mawson, and Harvey L. and Minnie Devore in one case, and George O. Webster, et al, in another case, are ordered to file their objections in writing by August 10.

Sentence Six Men to State Penitentiary on Chicken Theft Charges

Six men, who pleaded guilty to charges of stealing chickens from Morgan county farms, were given indeterminate sentences of one to 20 years in the Illinois State Penitentiary yesterday morning when they were called before Judge Walter W. Wright in Circuit Court. Sheriff Kenneth Woods made plans immediately to take the six men to the Chester penitentiary.

Four women, named with the men in the indictments returned at the special session of the May grand jury, were granted probation.

Judge Wright overruled a motion made by the men for probation, declaring that probation was intended for first offenders and for persons whom the court had reason to believe would benefit by not going to prison. He pointed out that each of the six men had been in trouble before, and that one of them had served a previous sentence at the Illinois State Farm.

"You'll have to make yourselves," the judge told the boys when he pronounced the sentences. "While you are in prison, do a little reflecting and see whether this crime business pays. There is only one end to it, there never has been but one end. If you decide to continue on a career of crime, you'll have to take the consequences. The court is here ready to take care of you. You can't beat the game.

"Law enforcement agents are ready to help you if you show them, when you get out, that you want to abide by the law," the judge said in conclusion. He explained that under the law the court is not allowed to pronounce a definite sentence, and that the cases will be handled from now on by the state parole board. The length of time the six will serve in prison depends upon the board.

Immediately after sentence was pronounced, the six men were led from the court room, manacled, and taken back to the county jail, while Sheriff Kenneth Woods obtained the official commitment papers.

Some of the six men were named in each one of nine indictments returned by the grand jury, and to which the men pleaded guilty. The judge pointed out that he was making their sentences concurrent so that they could serve time on each charge at the same time.

Gerald Watkins, George, Everett, and Henry Thomas, Rubert Nunn and Eugene Graves were the six receiving the sentences.

The four women who obtained probation were Ruth Rouland, Eva Lash, Hazel Estes and Eulah McHatton.

The Durbin neighborhood was represented by Jerry Langdon here Wednesday.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

WHERE LAKE MAUVAISTERRE USED TO BE

Rain yesterday relieved fears of an immediate water shortage in Jacksonville, but it could do little to provide an adequate supply of water for the city. Few citizens are aware of the fact that due to the constant influx of silt Lake Mauvaisterre has been gradually filling up until now its water capacity is very small compared to the amount it stored originally.

The above picture, taken several days ago, shows graphically how much the lake has filled in. The bridge which is shown in the foreground of the picture is on the road which runs along the east side of the lake near the Dick Woods farm. Some 350 yards in the distance is an automobile which had been driven from the road out across the hardened mud pan which used to be the bottom of the lake. Way in the background can be seen a little water.

One can tell merely from looking at the cut that the lake at this end was very shallow. The soil that has been washed into the lake from its twenty-four square mile watershed has practically filled it up.

Court Active This Week; Find Wild Turkeys Great Aid to Alfalfa Field

Jerseyville.—Attorney Homer McLaren of Springfield, a representative of the Attorney General's office, came to Jerseyville Monday to transact business in the absence of Acting State's Attorney T. J. Sullivan.

Information was filed in the county court by Attorney McLaren in the case of Fred Clark, charged with larceny and bond was fixed at $500. William Gilleland, alias William Clark, took a plea of guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to six months at the State Farm in Vandalia.

Preston Brown, charged with failure to support his child, agreed to pay the clerk of the court the sum of $2.00 a week for this purpose.

A plea of guilty to the charge of vagrancy was entered by Frank Spencer and he was sentenced to serve a year at Vandalia. Sentence was stayed on condition that Spencer leave the city.

Turkeys Eat Hoppers

The wild turkeys being propagated in the State Game Preserve in northern Richwood Township in Jersey county, Illinois, have proven of great economic worth in saving the alfalfa fields within the preserve this season.

The patches of alfalfa were attacked by hordes of grasshoppers which have been prevalent in this section of Illinois when the land owners saw the condition they believed their crop of alfalfa would be destroyed.

Along came the turkeys from the adjacent timber lands with their large broods of half grown young ones and foraged in the fields of alfalfa. Now there are few if any of the hoppers left, and owners of fields outside the game preserve, have solicited Warden Thomas Cummings to determine if the wild turkeys can be driven farther south from the game preserve area to save other fields of hay.

Study Beaver Sites

A survey is being made this week of sites proposed for releasing beaver in Jersey county late this month.

A number of suitable spots exist in the state game preserve and in addition to those is the Hussey Lake area on Otter Creek Township. Another spot believed well adapted exists in the Rosedale vicinity on land owned by Louis Croppel, former county superintendent of schools of Jersey county.

Jersey Pair Escape Death in Gun Blast

Double Charge of Powder in Shell Bursts Gun Barrel

Jerseyville.—Charles Gorman, 27 years old, and James Galore, 12, narrowly escaped death Monday evening when a 12-gauge shotgun in the hands of Gorman exploded as the latter fired a shot at a crane flying high in the air.

The accident occurred near the home of William Galore near the mouth of Coon Creek Landing in Rosedale township.

Gorman has been making his home with Galore for some time, being employed by the latter. On several occasions Gorman had endeavored to bring down one of the high flying cranes with shot in an ordinary shell.

It occurred to Gorman to double the powder charge in one of the shells. Accordingly, Gorman removed the powder from an ordinary shotgun shell and added it to the charge in another. He recapped the double charge shell and loaded the shotgun.

Accompanied by young Galore, he went out looking for some of the cranes. A couple of the awkward high flying birds came in sight and Gorman aimed at them as they drew near the Galore place. He pulled the trigger and the gun exploded, bursting the barrel into at least twenty pieces.

Gorman and Jimmie Galore were both knocked unconscious by the explosion. A piece of the gun barrel cut an ugly wound in Gorman's left arm, severing a major artery in the biceps region

William Galore and Attorney Russel Schwarz of Jerseyville, who had stopped his car and was talking to the former, went to the aid of the two. An inspection showed that Jimmie Galore had sustained nothing more serious than having the top of his cap cut off level with the top of his head by a piece of the flying metal.

A tourniquet was quickly fashioned and placed about the arm of Gorman to staunch the flow of blood. He was loaded into Schwarz's car and rushed to Fieldon to the office of Dr. B. M. Brewster, where he received medical attention.

Pike Electrification Plans Not Submitted In Detail, is Report

Obtain $385,000 Loan from Government; Provides for Long Lines

Washington.—(AP)—The Rural Electrification Administration said yesterday detailed plans of the Pike county Electric Cooperative of Pittsfield, Ill., which recently obtained a conditional REA loan of $385,000, have not been submitted to REA but are expected shortly.

Officials explained that the conditional loan, announced Saturday, was subject to the final plans and agreement on the contract between the cooperative and the federal agency.

Preliminary plans, on which the $385,000 loan was granted subject to final approval, provided for the erection of 362 miles of transmission lines to serve 1,136 customers in Pike, Calhoun, Scott and Adams counties, Illinois.

In June the REA announced a preliminary loan of $85,000 to the Pike County Cooperative. This was later rescinded and the amount increased to the sum announced Saturday.

When final plans are submitted, the REA will, if they are approved, begin making the money available to the cooperative as construction work progresses.

Announced Saturday also was a preliminary loan of $235,000 to build 225 miles of lines to serve 813 customers in Marion, Lewis and Clark counties, Mo. The loan is to be made to the Lewis county Electric Cooperative of Monticello. The Marion County Cooperative of Palmyra was also allocated $330,000 to build 320 miles of line to serve 1,000 customers in Marion, Lewis, Monroe, Shelby and Ralls counties.

The situation in regard to these two Missouri cooperatives, it was explained by REA officials, is the same as that applying to the Pike county venture.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

ESTIMATE 35,000 HAVE BEEN KILLED IN SPANISH REVOLT

Madrid, by plane to Hendaye, France—(AP)—Red cross officials estimated today 35,000 persons have been killed so far in the most savage political revolt in Spanish history.

Probably three times that many more have been wounded in fighting between loyal Leftists and rebellious Fascists, they declared.

In the Guadarrama Mountain sector where the fighting has been fiercest and of the longest duration, 13,000 persons were estimated to have been killed on both sides.

There are four American Roman Catholic cardinals. They are: William O'Connell, Boston; Dennis J. Dougherty, Philadelphia; George W. Mundelein, Chicago; and Patrick J. Hayes, New York City.

The Illinois Power & Light weekly cooking school will not be held this week.

Jesse Owens Captures Third Olympic Title In Four Days With Win In 200-Meter Run

Berlin, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Incomparable Jesse Owens, whose blazing bursts of speed and jumping ability have thrilled nearly half a million spectators on four successive days, completed his classic Olympic triple title conquest in record-smashing style in the rain today.

Approximately 75,000 spectators, the smallest crowd yet occupying the huge stadium any afternoon, made up in cheers what it lacked in numbers as the dynamic American Negro added the 200-meter title to his previous triumphs in the 100-meter sprint and the broad jump.

Pursued by his dusky Pasadena, Calif., teammate, Matthew (Mack) Robinson, who finished second, the Ohio state all-around star ended an unbeaten campaign by lowering the world as well as the Olympic mark around one turn to 20.7 seconds.

Owens, in contributing the fifth American Negro triumph in these games, featured another big day in which the United States team soared well over the 100 mark in the team point standing, leaving all rivals far behind.

In addition to the 200-meter final, Americans finished one-two in the discus throw with big Ken Carpenters of Compton, Calif., feating his California rival, Gordon (Slinger) Dunn by hurling the platter 50.48 meters, 165 feet 7 29/64 inches for a new Olympic record.

Another gold medal was added to the steadily growing American collection by Earl Meadows of Fort Worth, Tex. The southern California Trojan soared to the Olympic mark-smashing height of 4.35 meters, 14 feet 2 15/16 inches, eclipsing the old record of 14 feet 11 inches made by Bill Miller at Los Angeles four years ago.

The day's competition saw Great Britain retain the 50-kilo-meter walk championship as Harold Whitlock clipped nearly 20 minutes from the record, winning in four hours 30 minutes 41.4 seconds, and Uncle Sam's 110-meter hurdling trio and 1,500 meter triumvirate qualify in stirring trials marked by the elimination of Stanley Wooderson, Great Britain's "metric mile hope."

Reichfuehrer Adolf Hitler was driven from his official box by a heavy downpour of rain just after Owens lashed across the finish line for his third triumph and wasn't among the thousands of die-hards who remained and thundered acclaim when the Negro stepped up for the third time to be crowned with a laurel wreath and given his third gold medal and oak tree that will be planted on Ohio State's campus.

Rain Ends Second Game After Browns Trounce Sox 16 to 4

St. Louisans Pound Vernon Kennedy to Break 10 Game Streak

St. Louis, Aug. 5—(AP)—A driving rain ended a two-act clouting bill in a 9 to 9 tie today after the Browns had knocked White Sox offerings all over Sportsmans' park to win the opener 16 to 4.

The Hornsbymen's lusty batting forced Vernon Kennedy out of the box in the fifth inning of the first game, and broke a 10-game winning streak for the Chicago pitcher. Meanwhile Ivy Andrews managed to last through the full game despite 14 hits off him.

The Browns' bombardment in the fifth an sixth innings put them safely ahead in the opener, but the second game was a neck and neck battle through the seven innings that it lasted.

Dietrich and Knott, who started for Chicago and St. Louis respectively, were replaced by Brown for the Sox and Van Atta for the Browns.

Ex-Police Chief Is Charged With Aiding Kidnapers

St. Paul Man Implicated in Karpis-Barker Plots

St. Paul, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A former chief of police, Thomas A. Brown, was discharged from the city police department today in an order signed by Gus Barfuss, public safety commissioner, who charged him with abetting the Karpis-Barker gang plots that sprouted two of the nation's major kidnapings.

A smile and a "how are you" was Brown's reply when told he had been dismissed. "I have nothing further to say." He issued a blanket denial of the accusations last night. Several years ago Brown was indicted in a nationwide liquor conspiracy but the charges ultimately were dismissed.

George Sullivan, United States district attorney, said the federal government does not plan to prosecute Brown for either the William Hamm, Jr., $100,000 kidnaping of 1933 nor the $200,000 abduction of Edward Bremer in 1934.

"The Hamm case is outlawed by the statute of limitations and we don't plan prosecution of Brown in the Bremer case," said Sullivan.

M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey county (St. Paul) attorney, said tonight, however, that if proof of the charges are uncovered by his office, Brown would be prosecuted in the county district court.

"If there is proof that Brown was linked with the kidnapers, we will prosecute," said Kinkead. "If any direct evidence is uncovered, criminal charges will be filed against him. We are still investigating."

No warrant was issued for Brown but the sheriff was given the dismissal order to serve on the former chief, recently suspended as head of the automobile theft department.

The notification accused Brown of conveying confidential information of police activities to Harry Sawyer, now serving a life term in Alcatraz penitentiary as the "finger man" in the Bremer kidnaping.

Roy Parmelee Holds Bruins To Five Hits As Gas House Gang Gets 8 Off 3 Hurlers

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Roy Parmelee pitched five-hit ball today as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs 4 to 1 to extend their league lead to two full games over the second place National League champions.

The Gas House Gang's attack collected eight hits off Tex Carleton, Lon Warneke and Clay Bryant, one of the blows being Virgil Davis' fourth home run of the season.

Carleton and Parmelee hooked up in a brilliant pitching duel which lasted until Carleton bowed to a pinch hitter in the eighth. The Cub flinger allowed but four safeties in eight frames, but two of them resulted in as many runs in the fifth when Davis hit his homer, Durocher walked and Garibaldi doubled.

The Cards made their other two runs in the ninth when they knocked out Warneke, who had replaced Carleton. Frisch singled and John "Pepper" Martin sacrificed. Joe Medwick singled to score the Card manager and Johnny Mize's single moved Medwick to third before Bryant took Warneke's place on the hill. Davis singled to score Medwick with the final run of the tilt, the Card catcher being out when he tried to reach second.

The Cubs got their only run in the fifth after two were out. Billy Herman hit his 35th double of the season and scored on Frank Demaree's single. Herman hit his 36th double in the ninth.

More than 24,000 fans saw the Cards win their second victory in as many days in the current four-game series.

Lincoln Company is Low Bidder for 150 Carloads of Gravel

Will Furnish Material to Top Eleven Mile Stretch of Road in County

The McGrath Sand and Gravel Company of Lincoln was the successful bidder for 8,000 tons of surface gravel to be used on an eleven mile strip of road in Road District Ten. The commissioner and clerk of the district awarded the contract yesterday morning at a figure of 97½ cents a ton f.o.b. cars Lincoln. Bids from four other gravel producing firms were received.

Shipment on the big order will begin next week, probably Wednesday, and the gravel will be spread as rapidly as it arrives. The road is being constructed by the road district, with the Works Progress Administration assisting by furnishing the trucks with which to haul the gravel and part of the labor.

W. J. Casler, county superintendent of highways, estimated that the gravel would be spread in three weeks. Frank Hembrough is commissioner of the district, and Russel Devore is the clerk.

The improvement will be paid for out of a $40,000 bond issue voted by the district two months ago.

The Material Service Company of Chicago presented a low bid of 98 cents; Ray & Sons of Louisiana, Mo., had a low bid of $1.02; Springfield-Pekin Gravel Company bid $1.05, and the Missouri Gravel Company of LaGrange, Mo., bid $1.13.

It is estimated that the gravel will require a train of 150 cars.

Another DiMaggio

A third DiMaggio is on his way This one is Dominic, 19, brother of Joe of the New York Yankees and Vince of the San Diego Padres. Dominic wears shatterproof glasses. A .447 batting average with Monterey of the California Mission League and an exceptionally strong throwing arm have landed him a tryout with the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League next spring. The Seals sold Joe to the Yankees. Dominic is a shortstop, but wants to get into the outfield because of his tendency to overthrow.

FAN BREEZES

By Ernest Savage

Driven in off the golf links and fishing ponds by the rain, thank heavens, we find a note on our desk to the effect that one of the State Hospital fans, "F. L. T.," believes Mike Sweet, the southpaw flinger, is one of the best boys on the squad.

—o—

Mike is popular with the players and fans alike. He has turned in some good pitching performances this year, all of which has enabled him to keep his popularity at a high point.

—o—

The St. Louis Browns are not expecting more than 100,000 cash customers to watch their playing this year. They had 76,000 paid admissions during their first 52 home games.

And it's just three more weeks before the boys begin booting the football around.

—o—

That reminds us. The I. H. S. A. A. promised to send out the football rules books early this summer in order to give the arbiters a chance to study the code during the summer months. We haven't received our copy yet.

—o—

The Central Illinois tennis tournament this year is an open event. The tournament, which has been held in past years with players qualifying in district tournaments, has been opened to all without any qualification necessary.

—o—

The tournament will be held in Danville Aug. 14 to 16. The entry lists will remain open until midnight August 12.

—o—

Jacksonville's tennis playing duo, Bob Hamm and Elmer Lukeman found the going tough in the national junior tournament. Both players lost out in their first matches, although Hamm advanced to the second round on a default.

—o—

The boys had to play on clay courts at Culver, where the national tournament is being held, and as a result, their games, which are adapted to play on concrete courts, suffered. English on the tennis balls takes hold better on a clay surface than on a concrete surface.

—o—

Phil Caveretta breaks more bats than any other player on the Chicago Cub team. Charley Grimm can write with either hand, Lon Warneke shoots from either shoulder, and Augie Galan, so they say, can eat equally well with either hand.

DR. AND MRS. ADAMS RETURN FROM WEST

Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Adams returned Tuesday from a month's stay in their cabin at El Dara, Colo., and reported that this year's Jacksonville population in the popular resort was noticeably reduced.

Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Richards of the Congregational church will be the guests of the Adams' in their cottage during August.

During their stay in El Dara, Dr. and Mrs. Adams also entertained Miss Clara Smith and Miss Norma Perbix, members of the local high school faculty, who drove there to attend the Central City production of the opera "Gondoliers."

As far as Dr. and Mrs. Adams have been able to ascertain, these are the only Jacksonville people who have been in El Dara this summer.

SIMON LANTZ WILL NOT BE THIRD PARTY HEAD FOR GOVERNOR

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, campaigning for his sixth term as a Republican senator, today announced that he would not be a third party candidate for lieutenant governor.

The senator in a statement accused the Democratic administrations of extravagance, denounced reciprocal trade agreements and said, "the American market for the American farmers will be developed and maintained under Landon and Brooks."

Giants Trim Bees By Score of 8-4

Mel Ott Hits Two Homers for Second Straight Day

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—With Mel Ott hitting two homers for the second straight day, the Giants closed up more of the gap separating them from the league leaders today by bombing the Boston Bees 8 to 4.

Ott's four baggers, his 24th and 25th of the season, accounted for three of the Giants runs. The first came with a mate on base in the opening inning, and gave him three in three consecutive times at bat, since he hit one homer on each of his last two trips to the plate yesterday.

His other round-tripper today came in the eighth with the bases empty, and was followed immediately by Jim Ripple's long homer.

Rookie Gabby Gabler held the Bees in check for seven innings, the only scores against him coming on Tony Cuccinello's homer with two on in the fourth. Dick Coffman wound up the mound assignment.

Guy Bush, recent Boston acquisition from the Pittsburgh Pirates, was charged with the defeat, although he failed to survive the Giants' four-run opening blast.

Yanks Drub Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2

Ninth Straight Win Over Sox This Season

Boston, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The New York Yankees downed the Red Sox today for the ninth straight time this year, slugging out a 7 to 2 victory behind Johnny Broaca's seven-hit hurling.

Joe DiMaggio belted a homer and double, Frank Crosetti hit a two-bagger, triple and single and Lou Gehrig cracked out three singles to lead the 12-hit attack on four Boston pitchers, with Johnny Marcum, the Red Sox starter, being charged with the loss.

Jimmy Foxx led the Bostons with three singles, but he was the only batter to hit consistently against Broaca, who chalked up his seventh victory of the season.

DiMaggio's homer, his 17th of the season, started the Yankee scoring in the first inning. In the third, four Yankee runs came across on consecutive doubles by Crosetti and DiMaggio, Gehrig's single, walks to Bill Dickey and George Selkirk, and Tony Lazzeri's single, which drove Marcum off the mound.

In the fourth, with Jack Russell pitching for the Sox, Crosetti's triple and Roy Johnson's long fly added another run, and in the eighth the final tally came across on a walk, a sacrifice and Johnson's single.

The Sox were unable to get to Broaca until the seventh, when errors by Don Heffner on Rick Ferrell's bounder and by Tony Lazzeri on Dusty Cooke's grounder counted a run without a hit. In the eighth, Doc Cramer walked, Johnny Kroner singled and Eric McNair also hit safely for the only other Boston run.

Leaders in Bond List Make Gains

Foreign Dollar Bonds Droop Under Spanish Influence

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The bond market developed a steadier undertone today under leadership of a group of low-priced rails and utilities which were bid up major fractions to more than a point.

With European chancelleries working overtime to keep the Spanish political disturbances confined to that country, foreign dollar bonds developed a softer tendency. Poland 8s dropped 2¼ points to 44½, Rome 6½s lost 2⅛ at 76⅛, Italian 7s yielded 2½ at 82 and fractional declines were shown by Columbian 6s and Milan 6½s. Volume in most cases was comparatively small.

U. S. government bonds traversed a narrow field but the undertone remained steady.

Farm and Rural Interest

Rees Plowing Meet Will Draw Attention Today; Many Veteran Plowmen to Compete; Better Corn Report From Near Franklin; Zinc as Peach Spray.

Eleventh Rees Meet Will Attract Many

Today the interest of farmfolk as well as the interest of many city people will be brought to a focus at the Milford Rees farm, two miles southeast of Pisgah on Route 104. There will take place the 11th annual Rees Plowing meet, which each year draws many people to watch skilled plowmen compete for the Henry T. Rainey grand championship trophy and other prizes.

The rain which fell yesterday was felt by most farmers to be a great boon, but some are wishing that the weatherman will prove wrong in his prediction of rain for today. It's always that way—when you want rain badly it doesn't seem to come, and when you don't want it to rain, the heavens are almost certain to cut loose.

Dave Brown, who has earned quite a reputation in farm circles as an expert plowman, is expected to compete with seasoned veterans as Earl Seymour, Clarence Kenny, Robert Gibson, Chester Haynes and Paul Carpenter, who won the meet last year.

Well, there's one thing that won't be so bad as last year. The dust ought to be pretty well settled.

This Report Sounds A Little Better to Us

The farmers in the area just southwest of Franklin seem to be encouraged over the outlook for a corn crop. Some of them think it might make 25 bushels to the acre, and several even predicted a 40 bushel yield if rains continue.

It was reported that one farmer in that section of the county bought himself some hogs on the strength of his opinion on the corn. This certainly sounds better than most of the crop news we have been able to pick up from other sections of Morgan and surrounding counties.

Don't Let Fat on Your Chickens Frighten You

There is some little erroneous idea about fat chickens. That they should not become fat or they will not lay, etc. As usual, it is the proper method to take a middle of the road plan. Chicks should not be fattened according to the plan for broilers, if the pullets are to be used for early fall layers. That such pullets should carry a good amount of fat, along with good bone and muscle, is certain. Keeping the mash before them as usual, is recommended, but in addition, they should have grain. And that grain to be good, coarsely cracked yellow corn, fed in open troughs or feeders, and always to be found at will. That, together with the mash will give an evenly balanced ration for future productive pullets. Do not be afraid of fat, in conjunction with the other needed growth.

Find Zinc of Value In Peach Spraying

While in some sections of the United States certain physiological diseases of peach trees have been corrected by applications of zinc sulphate, Illinois soils appear to have sufficient available zinc to permit proper development of both trees and fruit.

This finding is reported in a new bulletin, No. 424, just issued by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, covering a seven year study on zinc sulphate in peach sprays made by H. W. Anderson, chief in pomological pathology, and K. J. Kadow, associate pathologist, department of horticulture.

However, zinc sulphate does have a decided corrective effect on lead arsenate-lime spray injury to peach trees, the bulletin points out. Prior to 1929 when zinc sulphate was first added to spray ingredients, acid lead arsenate and hydrated lime with or without sulphur were the standard materials for peach sprays, although acid lead arsenate often caused severe injury to trees and fruit.

Introduction and recommendation of zinc sulphate, which tends to reduce this injury when included as an ingredient in peach sprays, was hailed as one of the most important recent contributions to the peach growing industry.

Small amounts of zinc sulphate appear to be equally as efficient as larger amounts, the bulletin states. One pound in 100 gallons of water with three pounds of acid lead arsenate and 3 pounds of hydrated lime is apparently sufficient to reduce spray injury effectively under average field conditions.

BETTER FARMING BRIEFS

Failure to provide each hen with four square feet of floor space impairs health and lowers egg production, according to H. H. Alp, extension poultryman, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

—U of I—

Poultry records show that only about 15 per cent of the 1935 egg production was laid during the months of October, November and December when prices are good. H. H. Alp, extension poultryman, University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says poor housing facilities stand out as one of the chief reasons for this low winter production.

Government Quits Buying Livestock

Cattle Receipts Return To Normal Basis

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—With cattle receipts returning to a near normal basis and the market strengthening as a result, the government today withdrew from the trade. Federal agents purchased a number of cutter heifers and cows and common calves at various corn felt markets the first of the week, this being the initial move in the 1936 drought-relief livestock program.

With only 11,000 beeves on hand today, light cattle were strong to a shade higher, although medium weight and weighty kinds, of which there was an excessive supply, ruled steady to 15 cents lower. Withdrawal of the government left the market on grassy and warmed up steers and cows and heifers very uneven. Stockers and feeders were weak but demand improved to some extent because of rainfall in many sections of the corn belt.

The practical top in the cattle trade was $9.25, paid or yearlings and medium weights, although specialty steers brought $9.75. Best heavy steers brought $9.10.

Hogs closed 5 to 15 cents lower, with spots 25 cents off, after holding fairly steady in early rounds. The extreme top early was $11.25. Receipts, totaling 16,000, proved slightly burdening to the trade.

Fat lambs lost 25 cents in some instances after a steady opening. The top or natives was $10.75 although the best price paid late was 50 cents lower than this.

Wheat Rises With European Reports

Flour Buying At Home Aids Market Gain

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—European reports of a tense political outlook and severly adverse harvest weather overseas, together with big domestic purchasing of flour, sent wheat values kiting today.

Wheat in Chicago rose 3¢ cents a bushel and at Minneapolis 4¢ cents, despite the fact that corn values had suffered a temporary break of nearly 4 cents. Stress was given to reports that wheat production the world over is now less than the amount needed or normal use, let alone an emergency.

Minneapolis advised of one sale of 550,000 barrels of flour, another of 200,000 barrels and another of 175,000 barrels with mills in some sections booking orders for 199 percent of capacity. Winnipeg estimates were that 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought today for export.

Wheat closed strong at the day's top, 4¢ cents up from an early low point and 1¢-3¢ above yesterday's inish, Sept. 113¢-¼, Dec. 114-114¼, May 114-114¼, corn 1¢ off to ¢ up, Sept. 106¢-¾, Dec. 94¢-¾, May 92¢-¼, oats unchanged to ¢ higher, Dec. 44¢-¼, and rye showing 1¢-1¢ bulge. In provisions, the result was unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Curb Market Hit By Profit Taking

Utilities and Specialties Make Gains

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—With the exception of firmness in a small group of utilities and industrial specialties, curb market stocks felt the weight of further profit taking today, ending with the majority of issues unchanged to a shade lower.

Brightest spots included Jones & Laughlin Steel, up 2¼ at 43¢; Aluminum Co., up 1¢ at 133¼; American Gas, up 1¼ at 45; Northern States Power "A," up ¢ at 27¢; and Niagara Hudson Power, up ¼ at 17¼.

Against these upside performers were the narrow and irregular tendencies in the rank and file. Gulf Oil lost 2¼ points, Sherwin-Williams dropped 2 and fractional declines were shown by Electric Bond & Share, International Petroleum, American Light & Traction, Creole Petroleum, Lake Shore Mines, American Cyanamid "B", Newmont Mining and Sunray Oil.

Transfers of 313,000 shares compared with 278,000 Tuesday.

Stocks Irregular To Somewhat Lower

Motors and Aircrafts Hit By Selling Wave

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Buffetted gy selling in the motors and aircrafts the stock market firmed somewhat in late trading but closed irregularly lower.

Brokers said they were caught between cross currents of favorable trade and industrial news and caution inspired by continued drought and foreign clouds.

The market's behavior refleted Wall Street's conflicting emotions shortly after a steady start, analysts said. As trading progressed motors and aviation equities slumped while industrial specialties thrust ahead, some of them on active buying.

Near the finish there was a half-hearted rally which failed to get very far. In terms of the Associated Press averages of 60 shares the market closed .1 lower at 67.8. Transactions totaled 1,284,760 shares against 1,043,230 on Tuesday.

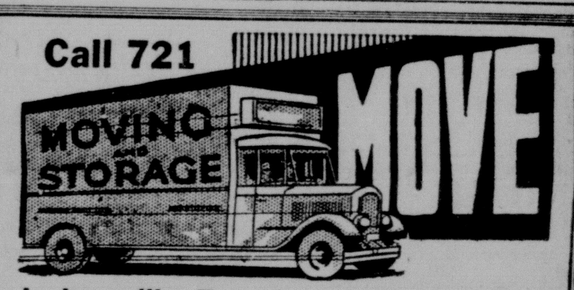

CHICAGO CASH GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Cash wheat was 1 to 2 cents higher. The basis was ½ to 1 cent higher mainly on hard. Receipts were 97 cars; shipping sales 65,000 bushels; booked to arrive 35,000.

Corn was 2 to 4 cents lower. Receipts were 140 cars; shipping sales 78,000 bushels; booked to arrive 400,000.

Oats unchanged to 2 cents lower. Receipts were 77 cars; shipping sales 45,000 bushels; booked to arrive 60,000.

Rejected Parents Fight to Keep Girl In "Mix-up" Case

Have Kept Girl 17 Years; She Wants to Go Back to Other Home

Atlanta.—(AP)—Louise Madeline Pittman chose a Macon family as her own after living seventeen years with an Atlanta couple, but the man and woman who reared her are determined not to give up the pretty school girl.

"We are going to get her back," said Daniel L. Pittman today.

He would not say, however, whether he planned court action in the strange case which started with a baby mix-up in 1919.

The attractive brunette said yesterday in Macon that a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. John C. Garner had convinced her they are her parents, and that she would live with them.

A 1920 court ruling held that she should remain with the Pittmans "until she becomes of age to decide for herself."

Pittman said he interpreted the order to mean Louise should live with them until she was 18. Her birthday is May 22.

"I don't want to cause any trouble if I can help it, but we want her back," said the meat cutter. "If we give her a little time to think it over, maybe she will change her mind."

Daughters were born to the Pittmans and the Garners in an Atlanta municipal hospital on successive days in May, 1919. By error the children were mixed. Finally, hospital authorities gave Louise to the Pittmans and the other child to the Macon railroad engineer and his wife.

The Garners, not satisfied, took the case to court. Meanwhile, the child given to them died.

Louise said she planned to go to Atlanta tomorrow with the Garners to "straighten things out" with the Pittmans.

"I want to live with the Garners," she said. "I believe they are my father and mother and that their three daughters are my sisters.

"We look so much alike. Unless there is some way they can force me to live with the Pittmans, I want this to be my home."

American Refugees Arrive at Boston

Relate Tales of Horror and Bloodshed in Spain

Boston.—(AP)—The first American refugees to arrive here from the raging civil strife in Spain told tales of horror and bloodshed tonight.

Burned churches, sudden airplane attacks, fear of death and roaming bands of young men and women all heavily armed were part of the descriptions related by Americans, mostly women, arriving on board the S. S. Exeter.

A New York portrait painter, Donald Newhall, (100 West 59th St.) told how he, his wife and two other New Yorkers were lined up at a roadside in Minorca by Spanish soldiers who levelled their rifles at them.

Only the intervention of a Spanish woman, who shouted "they're English," saved them, Newhall said. Later a top sergeant guarded them.

Oliver Allen of Scarsdale, N. Y., and Sam Wagstaff of New York City were with the Newhalls, the painter said.

Newhall said he believed the soldiers mistook the party for fleeing Royalists or escaping army officers.

From the lips of Ana Louisa De Davila, wife of the mayor of Jayaya Puerto Rico, came a story of living several days in a Barcelona hotel where guests prepared their own food, washed dishes and "kept house" because the servants joined the ranks of fighters.

Katrine Charnley, 21, of Cleveland, a Wells College (N. Y.) graduate, described street fighting in Barcelona and the ransacking of a girls' orphanage there. Girls of about 12 to 13 years of age, she said, were led from the orphanage. "What happened to them I don't know, but the union leaders made headquarters out of the building.

"I saw government troops and guardia (Barcelona police) clash in front of the house where I stayed with my aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip E. West. Eight men were shot dead and 20 wounded in the skirmish."

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employe, persuades her to go to Lake Racine. Bill is obviously attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.

Ann goes to the mountain resort and at first is lonely. Then she meets RALPH SPRING, the head boatman, who tells her frankly he is not interested in girls. Ralph introduces Ann to JAIME LAIRD, wealthy playboy. Jaime takes her to a dance at the fashionable Majestic Hotel and she is the belle of the occasion. She meets LEFTY PONDS, married but flirtatious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

THE long, sleek roadster literally burned up the mountain roads. Ann clung to her seat at Jaime's side. Her face was wind-blown, her hair in disarray, as the car sped up the gradient on the the Whiteface Mountain highway. When they reached the top and parked on the spur of the mountain, they could see for a hundred miles across the moonlit, shimmering surfaces of a dozen lakes. Around them the crenelated peaks soared into moonlit heavens. It was a majestic sight.

"There you are, Duchess!" Jaime said, taking his hands from the wheel and making a sweeping gesture toward the mountains and rolling hills. "I've placed the whole world at your feet."

"But I don't want the world," Ann said simply. "At least—not all of it."

"Do you know, you are a curious type!" Jaime told her boyishly. "And I've known lots of girls."

"So I've been given to understand."

"Tongues wagging again," he said ruefully. "Porch sitters, I suppose? That's the trouble with a resort hotel. Too many knitters who stay on the porch and tell tales. Why don't they get out, and see something like this?"

"That's what I wondered about you," Ann said.

"Go on. Tell me how wicked I am. I'm a good listener."

"Well, you dance all night. In the mornings you sit in a fat chair at the stock office, and watch ticker tape. In the afternoon—"

"I play the horses? Is that all?"

* * *

"IF you're recovering from an illness," she said, "why don't you get some fresh air—climb mountains, take long walks through this beautiful country, get up early enough to see the glorious dawn."

"Walk, climb!" he scoffed. "That's why I have a fast car."

"Then why don't you ride horses—get some exercise?"

"Exercise!" He made a wry face, but then his tone altered a little. "I do like to swim. It's a sort of—escape. I swim on and on and on, and sometimes I think I might swim on until I can't get back. Maybe I am a little crazy."

"That's silly of you," she said. "You have youth. You've regained your health. What more do you want?"

"That's what I don't know," he said. "I don't know what I want."

"Did you ever try really working at a job? That's escape enough for me. I'm completely absorbed in my job."

Jaime turned. "Woman, are you by any chance trying to reform me? Don't! There've been other girls who tried it, and it was a bitter pill at the end."

Ann laughed. "No, I'm not trying to reform you. This is merely talk."

"Oh!" he said, and his eyes brightened. "You don't like talk. You want some heart-searching. By trial and error, you want to pry out the secrets of my soul."

* * *

"I DO not!" she asserted, laughing. "I don't know a thing about you except—the surface things."

"What the porch sitters say, you mean! All right, I'll give it to you straight. I'm an idler. I live on money I haven't earned. I love to play. I love to follow the sun. All I want is to watch ticker tape run out sweetly, and hear the dope sheets in the racing room running to form. That's what I do. Now, who am I? I'm Jaime Laird, age 26. The whereabouts of my parents is unknown. My mother ought to be in Paris now. I think Dad is in Shanghai. I've got a trust fund, but it's like the dole—just enough for me to live on. It doesn't breed contentment. So what do I do? I just live on it if I can, and make myself unhappy all the time."

"Don't be unhappy," she said. "That's the secret. Buck up. Take things as they come."

He looked at her with a mock-heroic regard. "Lady, can you spare a dime?"

Ann moved uncomfortably. "I don't think I should have come up here with you," she said.

Jaime leaned back against the car seat, and sighed, luxuriously. "Of course you should have. Why not? Now go on and tell me all about yourself. What things do you like? What is your ambition?"

"I like almost everything," she said. "Especially the outdoors."

Jaime groaned. "Don't ask me to climb a mountain, please!"

"My ambition? I think I only want a little happiness. Much of my happiness has come from helping others. I had to help support my mother and two kid brothers upstate."

Jaime was quiet, and feigned sleep. She watched his pale face in the moonlight. It was a handsome, weak face. There was everything about it that was different from Ann's own firm, self-assured look.

Suddenly she was aware that Jaime had opened his eyes, and was watching her, a lazy smile about his lips. He leaned over, caught her close and kissed her. She could not find it in herself to resist. He kissed her again, and then sat up straight and lit a cigaret.

* * *

HE was silent, letting the smoke curl up about his fine temples, and regarding her. Ann felt herself almost hypnotized by his fervid stare.

"You are a little bit of all right," he said. "I like you. You're different. Promise me now that you won't try to reform me."

He was already taking things for granted, she realized. She did like him—and yet, with an instinct born of her ingrained self-reliance, she distrusted him. He was weak, weak—

"How am I different?" she said. "I suppose you try to make love to all the girls on your first date? Or have you a private code about such things?"

"Oh, that!" he said, almost carelessly. "That isn't what counts with me. A kiss in the dark? Pouf!" He blew out some smoke to illustrate. "I've simply met you—a swell girl. We've been dancing. I like to talk with you. Just now we're sitting on top of the world." And suddenly he sat up. "And perhaps, just now—for once in my life—I'm happy."

She smiled at him. He was interested in her.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," Jaime said, his eyes bright. "I'll climb a mountain with you in the morning. Not in the car, but on foot. One mountain!" he amended.

"What mountain will it be?" she said. This proposal, coming from him, gave her a new insight into his character. He was less selfish than she had thought.

"Oh, let's take a little one first," he said. "Then maybe we can work up to the big ones."

She cried out with gay laughter, and in this unguarded moment he took advantage of her again. He kissed her, and said, low, "Darling!"

It swept her off her feet. Ann sat away from him, and turned on the car switch.

Annual All-Day Affair Will Be At Sweatman's Grove Near Virginia

Plans and arrangements are complete for the annual Cass County Farm Bureau picnic which will be held at Sweatman's grove, four miles west of Virginia, next Wednesday, August 12th, according to J. Hy. Kuhlmann, chairman of the special picnic committee in charge of all arrangements. A full day is planned and all farmers of Cass county as well as their town and city friends are cordially invited to attend.

Events of the day will start at 10 a. m. with the horse shoe pitching contest which will be held under the direction of Fred Anderson. Cash prizes will be offered for the best single as well as two men teams. The afternoon program will get under way at 1:30 with several musical and vocal numbers, and which will be followed by the address of the day given by J. R. Fulkerson of Jersey county. Mr. Fulkerson is president of the Producers Livestock Commission Association of East St. Louis, and a member of the State Board under the Soil Conservation program. He has been closely identified with organized agriculture for a number of years.

His address will be followed by the baseball game, which will be played between two Cass county teams, the Country Life team and the Arenzville team. Both of these teams are playing an excellent brand of ball, and a close contest is anticipated. During the baseball game a program will be furnished from the band stand by the Girls' 4-H Clubs of the county for the benefit of the ladies and those who do not care to see the ball game. There will also be a 5 inning soft ball game immediately following the regular game, and which will be played between the Mac's Clothes team of Beardstown and a picked team composed largely of country boys from various parts of the county and who have played on various other teams.

The evening program will consist of a talking motion picture entitled "Under the 4-H Flag." There will also be two reels of educational film and one of comedy which will give about two hours of evening entertainment.

An amplifying system has been arranged and which will give everyone an opportunity of hearing all programs from the band stand. The Beardstown High School band will play beginning at 12:30 in the afternoon and throughout the afternoon.

Everyone is urged to bring their dinner baskets and spend the day as well as the evening with the farmers of Cass county.
